SINCE 1995 Compliance EnviroSystems, LLC (CES) has exceeded industry standards, setting the bar for sanitary sewer and storm drain evaluations. As a full-service professional sanitary sewer and storm drain evaluation provider, CES assists engineering firms, wastewater utility contractors and municipalities in maintaining sewer systems across the United States. Headquartered in Baton Rouge, CES employs more than 160 dedicated and family-oriented employees.

President Brad Dutruch served four years on the National Association of Sewer Service Companies board of directors and one year as national president of the organization. He also owns BLD Services, LLC, based in Jefferson Parish, Better Pumps and Solutions, LLC and is part-owner of several other construction-related businesses throughout the Southeast. He currently serves on the board of trustees at The Dunham School in Baton Rouge.

Dutruch calls himself a “visionary leader.” “It’s important to have the right people on your team to turn vision into reality,” he explains. “Delegation is the key to building a strong team. I hire strong people and provide opportunities for them to reach their personal goals while bringing CES’s vision to reality. This sometimes comes at a cost, but I support my employees win or lose.”

He understands that the employees make the company. “Our reputation is at stake on every job. We drive home the ideology that you can only make a first impression once. We have many long-term clients for this reason, and the employees understand that to keep it that way we have to do it right, every time.”
